International Summer School on “Embedding Human Rights in Cybersecurity”
11 - 18 March 2018 in Delhi, India

The Hans-Bredow-Institut and the Faculty of Law of the University of Hamburg, together with the Centre for Communication Governance at the National Law University Delhi and the Institute for Technology & Society of Rio de Janeiro in collaboration with the UNESCO Chair on Freedom of Communication at the University of Hamburg and the Global Network of Internet and Society Research Centers are pleased to give students with a focus on Media Law as well as European and International Law the opportunity to participate in an international Summer School on “Embedding Human Rights in Cybersecurity” being held in Delhi, India, from 11 to 18 March 2018.

The lectures will address different aspects of Cybersecurity and its relation to Freedom of Speech and other Human Rights. The summer school typically brings together a diverse group of scholars and students from Germany, India and Brazil for an intensive week of lectures, discussions and interactive learning exercises. It offers participants a unique opportunity to learn from leading experts on an emerging legal issue. Students are expected to read introductory texts, participate in group activities and in general contribute proactively to the school’s agenda. Their learning is assessed at the end by asking them to role-play different stakeholders and make arguments before a mock UNESCO panel.

Costs for accommodation, catering and local excursions are fully covered; travel expenses (flights, visa, airport transfers) are partly covered (specific amount to be announced later). For application, please hand in your CV as well as a short letter of motivation (max. 1 page) via email (pdf-file) to Tobias Mast (t.mast@hans-bredow-institut.de) until 1 February 2018. Applicants are welcome to support their application with further proof of skills relevant to the event.
